

Elyssa Goodman
Sagemont Class of 2006

College: Carnegie Mellon University

Major Accomplishments:

- 2010 Andrew Carnegie Society Scholar
- Founder and Editor-in-Chief, The Cut Music Magazine:
- Women's Leadership Institute, Sex Week Chair
- Dancer's Symposium, Dancer
- Contributing Writer, HerCampus.com
- Writer, The Sun-Sentinel Newspaper
- Writer, Carnegie Mellon Today magazine
- Contributing Writer, Doll magazine (Toronto, Canada)
- Andrew Carnegie Scholar, Carnegie Mellon
- Hilary Masters Personal Essay Award, 2009
- Adamson Awards, Carnegie Mellon English, Dept
- Scholarship Winner, The Newspaper Guild of Pittsburgh
- Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society

How Did The Sagemont School Prepare you for your College Experience?

“Because Sagemont was so small, I was never scared to undertake big projects. Even though I chose to go to a university where there more than 35 kids in my class , I still wasn't afraid to try new things and to take initiative to start projects like The Cut, Carnegie Mellon's music magazine. I don't know if I would have had the confidence to do things like that if I had gone to school elsewhere.”